

The 2007 International Conference on Abelian Groups and Modules over Commutative Rings (AGAMOOCR) will survey recent results in several closely related areas of commutative algebra.

This conference is hosted by the Department of Mathematics at the University of Connecticut and will include presentations by invited and plenary speakers from Monday, June 11, through Friday, June 15. A mathematical education component will include a public lecture and a session of invited talks on undergraduate projects in algebra.
