

Academic Integrity

A fundamental tenet of all educational institutions is academic honesty; academic work depends upon respect for and acknowledgement of the research and ideas of others. Misrepresenting someone else's work as one's own is a serious offense in any academic setting and it will not be condoned. Academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, providing or receiving assistance in a manner not authorized by the instructor in the creation of work to be submitted for academic evaluation (e.g. papers, projects, and examinations); any attempt to influence improperly (e.g. bribery, threats) any member of the faculty, staff, or administration of the University in any matter pertaining to academics or research; presenting, as one's own, the ideas or words of another for academic evaluation; doing unauthorized academic work for which another person will receive credit or be evaluated; and presenting the same or substantially the same papers or projects in two or more courses without the explicit permission of the instructors involved. A student who knowingly assists another student in committing an act of academic misconduct shall be equally accountable for the violation, and shall be subject to the sanctions and other remedies described in The Student Code, www.dosa.uconn.edu/student_code_appendixa.html.

Final Exams: Rescheduling Policy and Procedure

The scheduling of Final Exams is done by the university, not by your individual Instructor or department. Rescheduling is discouraged and requires special permission. When students are forced to miss a Final Exam due to illness, accident, death in the family, or other unavoidable reasons they must obtain permission in writing from the Office of Student Services & Advocacy. Students should present the Office of Student Services & Advocacy with appropriate documentation to support their request. After receiving permission from the Office of Student Services & Advocacy, students should present it to their instructor, who will discuss with them the exact time and location of the rescheduled final exam. Please, notify your Instructor and start the procedure as early in the semester as possible. Additional information can be found at www.ossa.uconn.edu/docs/finals_list.pdf.

The Q Center

In addition to your Instructor's office hours, you can get help with the material in your course at the UConn Q Center. The UConn Q Center provides tutoring for a list of Q courses from a number of departments, including Math 1011Q to Math 1132Q. In addition to free, drop-in tutoring, the Q Center maintains a list of private tutors. For information on hours and locations please check the Q Center website: www.qcenter.uconn.edu
